McLean Project for the Arts, Washington Sculptors Group Announce Juried Exhibition Opening February 2

MFA and WSG will collaborate on "Sculpture Now 2017," non-thematic exhibition of new sculpture works

McLean, VA: McLean Project for the Arts (MFA) and the Washington Sculptors Group (WSG) open a new exhibition, Sculpture Now 2017, on February 2, 2017 at MFA's Old Chainbridge (1488 Chain Bridge Road, McLean). This juried exhibition includes sculpture in many different forms and permutations, and offers a sampling of works by artists from throughout the Mid-Atlantic region and beyond. The Opening Exhibition Reception will take place Thursday, February 2, 2017 at MFA's Old Chainbridge from 7:00 until 9:00 pm.

Participating artists include: Linda Ager-Hendrix, Lynda Andrew-Gary, Lisa Curtis, Esther Dikich, Janet Evans, Ann Oltos, Irene Oudinet, Tony Coates, Mary Cuffy, Anna Farmer, Mary Annala Misa Frank, Pamela Gooding, Malcolm Holly, Arlene Horber, Susan Houston, Monna Isenborg, Penny Jacoby, Joanne Kent, Jeremy Thomas Rankin, Jin Lee, Li Leonard, Yue Li, June Orloff, Jill Luskoff, Grant McFarland, Sara Parrot-Farmer, Jane Pitts, Garrett Pope, Jean-Severin Rivest, John A Schaffer, Tatjana Sotnikova, Casey Taylor, Gill Ungerling, Elizabeth Varlock, Jonathan Weiner, Julie Wills, and Roy Yick.

Sculpture Now 2017 is organized by the Washington Sculptor's Group and is juried by MFA Exhibitions Director and Curator Nancy Sausser.

"Sculpture Now offers the public an opportunity to experience a wide range of up-to-the-moment artwork, including three-dimensional freestanding sculpture, wall-hung and ceiling-hung installations, abstract construction, and more," said Sausser. "Many different mediums, methods and topics are explored."

Sculpture Now also features the Fowsey Prize, an honorarium awarded by the juror to the artist whose work reflects the best qualities for the overall WSG Sculpture Now 2017 show.

Sculpture Now will be on display at MFA's Old Chainbridge through March 4, 2017. MFA's Old Chainbridge is located in the Chain Bridge Corner Shopping Center in the space between CVS and Kucera Restaurant.
