Exhibition of Large-Scale Photography Opens at MPA@ChainBridge McLean Project for the Arts opens inaugural exhibit at its second location

McLean, VA: The McLean Project for the Arts (MPA) officially opened its new location, MPA@ChainBridge, with its inaugural exhibit, Moving Through: Works by David A. Douglas. Showcasing large-scale landscape art, the exhibit opened December 8, 2017 and runs through January 21, 2018. The exhibit is open to the public Monday through Thursday from 12:00 pm until 5:30 pm and Friday and Saturday from 10:00 am until 5:30 pm.

Located in the Chain Bridge Corner Shopping Center in the space between CVS and Razon Restaurant, MPA@ChainBridge features an exhibition gallery as well as an art education space. MPA, in residence at the McLean Community Center (MCC) for more than 20 years, must relocate temporarily while the MCC undergoes a major renovation in spring, 2017. Until then, MPA's existing galleries and DuPont Studio in the MCC (MPA@MCC) will remain open and active. Once the renovation begins, MPA@ChainBridge will serve as MPA's primary gallery, classroom and office space for about two years.

Moving Through: Works by David A. Douglas is the first exhibit featured at MPA's second location, MPA@ChainBridge. Working at the intersection of drawing, painting and photography, David A. Douglas creates large-scale works that explore the power of place. Desiring personally significant landscapes on a monumental scale, Douglas offers the viewer the opportunity to enter the works on their own terms and experience the highly charged potency that lies within the ordinary moment.
