McLean Project for the Arts' Spring Benefit Set for May 16

MPA's signature spring gala to take place at The Falls

The iconic Kinsey family residence overlooking the Potomac River

McLean, VA McLean Project for the Arts' signature spring gala, Spring Benefit, will take place on May 16, 2014 at The Falls, the Kinsey family residence overlooking the Potomac River. Hosted by Sarah and Mark Kinsey and co-chaired by McLean residents Bela Aggarwal and Jacqueline Henry, Spring Benefit raises critical funds supporting MPA's exhibitions, education programs and art outreach.

"Spring Benefit brings our community of supporters together to celebrate MPA's outstanding visual arts programs," said MPA Executive Director Lori Carboneau. "This year, we are particularly excited to offer guests the opportunity to support the arts in such an inspired location."

The Falls

Reflecting timeless, modern architecture and privately positioned on a premier site overlooking the Potomac River, The Falls is one of the most iconic residences in the Washington region. MPA's Spring Benefit guests will enjoy picturesque views of the Potomac River. The grounds also feature The Marston House, one of only a handful of homes in the Commonwealth of Virginia designed by famous architect, Frank Lloyd Wright.

New to its 17th year, MPA relies on the funds raised at Spring Benefit to further its mission of connecting art and community. The event will feature live from Windows Covering Company, live painting demonstrations, music, and more.

Sponsorship opportunities are currently available online. Ticket sales open Tuesday, March 19, 2014. Visit mpaart.org for more information.
